

Do you think English is Important for your career and why?

English is one of the most spoken language in the world. Almost every person speaks it or understands it. I'd say that English is one language that everyone must know. It's like a universal language, everyone speaks it, and it's important to know it because let's say you're working out of state, and the only language you know is English. You traveled to France for work and don't understand a word people are saying, if you English then ask someone and find out whether they know or understand it. This helps because majority of jobs mostly speak English to communicate depending on where you're going for work. In conclusion, English should be something that you have to know to communicate with people around the world.
